How can immigrants and residents connect better?

- » Create and join support groups like coffee mornings.
- » Be welcoming and mean it. Include newcomers in community activities.
- » We don't have many social spaces that aren't alcohol focused this creates real barriers.
- » I have yet to see advertising for groups, meetings or programs; formal or informal, to welcome them to town.

» I think the best connections are made through children, mainly through school activities.

Have witnessed discrimination against newcomers.

What were the reasons for the discrimination?

Does the Western region do enough to support immigrants and refugees?

What changes will help make newcomers feel more welcome?

- "Without the understanding that immigrants are not 'stealing' our jobs, doctors and homes, this will continue to be a fairly unwelcome place for immigrants to establish roots."
- "Finding other folks to connect with who have a similar background."
- "More public display of their culture. Maybe add flag poles to a public area in town and hang the flags of newcomers as they arrive for a month or more?"
- » "Welcome to signage in multiple languages."
